

University of Salford
MANCHESTER

I dig therefore we are : community archaeology, place-based social identity, and intergroup relations within local communities

Coen, S, Meredith, JM and Condie, JM

<http://dx.doi.org/10.1002/casp.2299>

Title	I dig therefore we are : community archaeology, place-based social identity, and intergroup relations within local communities
Authors	Coen, S, Meredith, JM and Condie, JM
Publication title	Journal of Community & Applied Social Psychology
Publisher	John Wiley & Sons
Type	Article
USIR URL	This version is available at: http://usir.salford.ac.uk/id/eprint/41265/
Published Date	2017

USIR is a digital collection of the research output of the University of Salford. Where copyright permits, full text material held in the repository is made freely available online and can be read, downloaded and copied for non-commercial private study or research purposes. Please check the manuscript for any further copyright restrictions.

For more information, including our policy and submission procedure, please contact the Repository Team at: library-research@salford.ac.uk.

I dig therefore we are: community archaeology, place-based social identity, and intergroup relations within local communities

Short title: I dig therefore we are

Sharon Coen
University of Salford
Directorate of Psychology and Public Health,
Allerton Building,
Salford M6 6PU
UK
44 (0) 161 295 7031
s.coen@salford.ac.uk

Joanne Meredith
University of Salford
Directorate of Psychology and Public Health,
Allerton Building,
Salford M6 6PU
UK
44 (0) 161 295 2806
j.m.meredith@salford.ac.uk

Jenna Condie
Western Sydney University
School of Social Sciences and Psychology,
Penrith, Australia
NSW 2751
61 (0) 2 9685 9351
j.condie@westernsydney.edu.au

Acknowledgements:

The project was funded by the Richard Benjamin Trust – Grant N RBT1309

We would like to thank Dr Liz Smith and Simone Aprili for their help in conducting and analysing the data and the Applied Archaeology team at Salford University for giving access to the participants and providing opportunities for the dissemination of the study's results.